BEIJING, CHINA – January 26, 2017 – The Bitfury Group, the leading global full-service Blockchain technology company, announced this month in Beijing that Greg Li will serve as the company's Head of Asia.

Greg Li brings to the Bitfury Group more than 20 years of management, strategy and business development experience throughout Asia in the hi-tech and financial services industries. Most recently, he served as the Head of Asia Pacific for Sales Force Effectiveness at Swiss Re Corporate Solutions. Li has extensive experience in pioneering the sales and development in the Asia Pacific region of new and cutting-edge services and solutions, including reinsurance, telecom infrastructure, mobile content platforms, network security, customer relationship management and more. Li successfully sold the very first excess-of-loss reinsurance contracts to Chinese insurance companies while educating the newly liberalized China insurance industry about this innovative approach, which is now the modern industry standard. Li has also served as the Executive Director of the Li Xing Foundation, a non-profit education foundation for children in China.

Li's experience with introducing new solutions to the Asia Pacific market and culturally bridging Western companies with Asian customers will guide his new role as Head of Asia for Bitfury, where he will develop strategic Bitcoin Blockchain solutions with enterprise partners, customers and government entities throughout the region.

“The Blockchain has profound potential to fundamentally revolutionize the ways in which enterprises operate, governments manage and consumers interact,” Li said. “I am excited to be a part of Bitfury and this revolution, which will change and improve so many aspects of our lives and how the world functions. Bitfury is a pioneer and the world's leading Bitcoin Blockchain company. I am honored to be their Head of Asia to work together with our partners and customers throughout the region to find new ways to apply Blockchain solutions to fundamentally improve their current businesses and develop new paradigms.”

“We are thrilled to be growing our presence in Asia and equally thrilled to welcome Greg on board to lead this new chapter of our company,” said Valery Vavilov, CEO of the Bitfury Group. “As a global company, we strive to advance Blockchain technology all over the world – bringing Greg on board is an important step in doing just that.”
